WORKING FOR A SWEETER FUTURE:

THE EU SUGAR SECTOR

WHAT IS IT LIKE WORKING FOR OUR SECTOR?

◀ Lisa Pfauter, Chemical laboratory assistant and Vanessa Tille, Technician/master assistant, Südzucker

"For us, working at Südzucker means a good start to working life with promising prospects for the future."

In particular, we like that our daily work is very varied. And even if we work in different areas our jobs do have overlaps in certain areas. We love to work as a team!"

▲ Mamen,
▲ Area Manager, Azucarera

"Teamwork is a central part of our goals in Azucarera, and one of the top values that we demonstrate every day."

For me, Azucarera means working in a position where I can develop my academic training in a company that is committed to the future of the sector and the safety of its employees.

My day-to-day role as an Area Manager takes place in the field with our growers where we accompany them on the whole crop cycle, from sowing to harvesting and everything in between. The excellent relationship that we have with our growers is key to everything we do."

▲ Walter Eßbüchl,
▲ Mechanical Engineer, AGRANA

"In my daily work I notice that every beet campaign is truly different."

I know the internal processes well as I have worked in the company for 20 years. But I am still amazed and enthusiastic about the technical development in the factory. I am very proud of working in the sugar industry.

▲ Marie Blocat,
▲ Process Engineer, Tereos

"Sugar production is based on a real know-how!"

When I consume sugar in my everyday life, I remember all the stages and expertise required for its production. I appreciate it all the more when I see the continuous improvement process to optimise resources, both in terms of raw materials and water and energy consumption."
